

Honors American Literature and Composition Ursuline High School Summer Reading List

Welcome to Honors American Literature and Composition!

Listed below is your summer reading list. Since the selections are all long novels, the due dates are staggered so as not to overwhelm any student right before the start of the school year. In addition to reading, you will be assigned “Reading Logs” and eventually, after we engage in discussion, a composition during the first few weeks of school. That means that your first quarter grade will be significantly impacted by your summer reading work.

Each of you should join the Google Classroom for Honors American Literature 2020-2021, code deb2h54, and submit your assignment through this site. Be sure to hit the “Turn in” button when you finish.

All these books will be issued to you like a textbook for which you are responsible. Information on when they will be available for pick-up will be forthcoming from the administration.

Black Boy (Part One only) by Richard Wright-Reading Log due by July 17

Farewell to Arms by Ernest Hemingway-Reading log due by July 17

The Great Gatsby by F. Scott Fitzgerald-due by August 28

The Grapes of Wrath by John Steinbeck-due by August 28

You must do your own work for this assignment. Do not collaborate with other students and NOT use any literary notes like SparkNotes or any other outside source, including the Internet, or points will be deducted from your score.

If you have any questions, feel free to email me at amorrison@youngstowndiocese.org. Looking forward to working together next year!
